STAUNTON, Va. – March 6, 2017 – Roy's Autoworks in Howell, Michigan has been selected as the Federated Shop of the Year. Nominated for this prestigious honor by Federated member Motown Automotive, Roy's Autoworks is owned by ASE Master Technician Roy Caverly.

"Congratulations to the team at Roy's Autoworks for being named Federated Shop of the Year," said Phil Moore, senior vice president of Federated Auto Parts. "We are always impressed with the nominations we receive for extremely qualified shops. This year, Roy's Autoworks was a stand out. The entire staff is committed to serving their customers and the community, and the professional technicians are continually improving their areas of expertise through in-depth training. "I want to thank Federated for choosing us as its shop of the year," said Caverly. "This is a great honor that I share with our entire staff. Everyone at Roy's Autoworks always strives to be the best. Our technicians and service advisors go to training courses offered by various vehicle manufacturers and vendors to keep up-to-date with today's changing technology. We also purchase the newest equipment and tools and keep a clean and approachable working environment. At Roy's, we love to give back to our community by sponsoring as many events and charities as we can."
