Four Seasons Announces “The Future Is Now” Promotion

Jump Start Your Shop into a “Greener” Era with Vehicle Comfort Center Shop Kit

LEWISVILLE, Texas, May 18, 2017 – With the Four Seasons® “The Future is Now” promotion, running through Sept. 30, 2017, technicians can order the new Vehicle Comfort Center™ kit to help jump start their shop into a “greener” era of A/C service and repair.

“As the automotive industry moves towards a greener future, the U.S. EPA has mandated that all vehicle manufacturers transition from R134a refrigerant by 2021,” said Melanie Gann, marketing communications specialist, Four Seasons. “Over the last few years, many vehicle manufacturers have already chosen R1234yf air conditioning refrigerant and implemented this change. Our new Vehicle Comfort Center shop kit comes with an R1234yf gauge set and two paid registration forms to an EPA approved Section 609 training and certification program to help shops prepare for this transition.

The Vehicle Comfort Center kit, part number 99902, includes:

- one R1234yf gauge set
- two eight ounce bottles of R-1234yf PAG lubricant
- Mobile Air Conditioning Society (MACS) Section 609 training manual and two certification forms
- two pairs of mechanic touch screen gloves
- o-ring and gasket identification wall chart
- two Koolgator® cooling neck wraps
- four SMP PTS on-demand A/C online training credits

Each kit also contains three ways to receive a total of 10 entries to win a MAHLE ArcticPRO® R1234yf refrigerant machine. Get five entries by completing the promotional scorecard by installing 20 Four Seasons new or remanufactured compressors. Complete the Section 609 training and certification for three entries and get two additional entries for following us on social media.

Gann continued, “The time is now for A/C specialists and repair shops to become familiar with the shift to R1234yf. The new Four Seasons Vehicle Comfort Center kit contains the items that shops need to make a smooth transition. But don’t delay, the ‘The Future is Now’ promotion is available for a limited time, so order today.”
